Výsledky vzdelávania

The course provides students with a balanced and up-to-date overview of the history of the language and enables them to trace the language from the Old English period to modern times, to account for the present-day stage of the language and to explain the principal features in the development of modern language historically.

Upon successful completion of this course, the students are expected:

- to identify the origin of the English language and outline its diachronic development.
- to account for essential grammatical, phonological and lexical alterations in the course of the English language evolution and explain phenomena and processes by which the English language has changed
- distinguish native and borrowed words and identify the source of selected borrowed words.
- apply theoretical knowledge to carry out competent analysis of phonetic, grammatical and lexical features of language units in the texts of Old English, Middle English and Early New English as well as modern texts.

At the end of the course, students will be able to understand the ways in which English has developed from Old English to Modern English and to understand the ways in which historical, social, and cultural factors have influenced that development and apply theoretical knowledge and practical skills in their future teaching, translation, and research activities.
